1. ~~Peso Savings is a peso deposit savings account with a passbook and earns fixed interest.~~
2. The opening, operation and closure of the account shall be principally governed by the Terms and Conditions Governing Deposit Accounts agreed by the Account Holder upon account opening supplemented by these Rules and Regulations. The term "Account Holder" shall refer to any one of the Depositors named in Joint OR Accounts, or all of the Depositors named in Joint AND Accounts, provided that deposits to Joint AND Accounts may be made by any one of the Depositors named in the account or his duly authorized representative.
3. Upon opening of passbook-based accounts, BDO shall provide the Account Holder with a passbook in which all transactions shall be recorded. The Account Holder must not write anything on the passbook under any circumstances. BDO will not be liable or will not be made responsible for unauthorized entries made in the passbook. In the event of any discrepancy between the entries in the passbook and the records and accounts of BDO, the records and accounts of BDO shall prevail and be conclusive and binding on the Account Holder.
4. The Account Holder/authorized representative must present the passbook each and every time a transaction has to be made to the account. However, BDO may allow deposit transactions and, upon request of the Account Holder, allow withdrawal/debit transactions without the presentation of the passbook but shall be subject to required approvals and fees, as applicable. The passbook shall be updated over the counter at any BDO branch or in other authorized channel/s, as applicable, to reflect all the transactions made by the Account Holder/authorized representative in all forms, mediums and channels.
5. In case the passbook is damaged, lost or stolen, the Account Holder shall immediately notify BDO in writing and comply with the policies and procedures of BDO for the replacement of passbook including but not limited to the submission of a Sworn Statement/Affidavit of Loss, as applicable regarding the circumstances behind the damage, loss or theft of the passbook. BDO will not be held liable for any transaction made by persons presenting the passbook prior to its receipt of written notice from the Account Holder.
6. Deposits to the account must be made by using the prescribed deposit transaction form, or through the medium, channel or process implemented by BDO in accordance with its policies, discretion, refuse to accept any deposit, or return any deposit, in whole or in part, together with the accrued interest.
7. Withdrawals from the account must be made by the Account Holder/authorized representative by using the prescribed withdrawal form, or through the medium, channel or process implemented by BDO in accordance with its policies. The signature of the Account Holder and the signature of the authorized representative, in the case of withdrawal via representative, shall be required in BDO's prescribed withdrawal slip. Withdrawals by a person other than the Account Holder himself may be allowed only upon the written authorization of the Account Holder in the signed withdrawal slip or through a notarized (or consularized or apostilled if issued abroad) Special Power of Attorney issued by the Account Holder acceptable to BDO, accompanied by at least one valid ID of the person authorized, which shall be verified by BDO. At its sole discretion, BDO has the right to: (i) decide whether the documents submitted by the Account Holder and/or his authorized representative are acceptable for the withdrawal transaction; and (ii) require submission of additional documents and IDs from the Account Holder and/or his authorized representative.
8. Without prejudice to paragraph No. 3 above, all entries posted in the passbook should be examined by the Account Holder/authorized representative on the occasion in which the transactions were made and any challenge to any entry posted therein should be made by the Account Holder/authorized representative on the same occasion before leaving the bank premises. Likewise, any challenge to any entry posted in the passbook thru authorized channel/s should be reported immediately to BDO for verification. Otherwise, BDO will be relieved of any responsibility in connection therewith.
9. The passbook is neither transferable nor assignable. The assignment of the account in favor of any beneficiary during the lifetime of the Account Holder to take effect at his time of death will be dealt with in accordance with the provisions of the law regarding liquidation and disposition of a decedent's estate and existing rules and internal policies of BDO.
10. The Account Holder understands and agrees to these Rules and Regulations. The Account Holder further agrees that BDO can revise, amend, expand or supplement these Rules and Regulations from time to time.
